Lt. Derrick Taylor Balances the Badge and the Bible

by Meredith Flynn, Lifeway Research

As a new church planter, Derrick Taylor found himself wrestling with how to acknowledge his leadership role at Net Community Church in Staunton, Illinois, while still serving in his long-time role as a state trooper.

"As I started the planting process, I consistently battled with the phrase, 'I'm not a pastor; I'm a police officer,'" said Taylor, who had served 12 years with the Illinois State Police when he first sensed a call to ministry.

Taylor still serves as a lieutenant with the State Police, but he also pastors a church that has grown from a group of 15 people in 2016 to a congregation of 400 on Sunday mornings. "It's been a wild ride," he said.

Troop 6 "Slipped" In to Wish Their Admin a Happy Administrative Professionals Day

Happy Administrative Professionals Day to Troop 6's own Brandy Gorda — a.k.a. "Slipps"!

Let's be honest, every team has that one person who quietly holds the whole thing together.

For Troop 6, that person is Brandy. She's our secret weapon: calm, capable, and always ten steps ahead. You'll never hear her complain, even when the rest of us are spinning in circles. Need an answer? She's got it. And if she doesn't, give her five minutes—she'll find it.

It's no surprise that every trooper ends up at her desk sooner or later. Brandy's the one we all count on, whether it's for the paperwork we forgot, the info we need, or just a dose of her spirited energy. She's sharp, dependable, and flat-out great to work with.

As for "Slipps," rumor has it she was halfway to work one morning before realizing she still had her slippers on. That makes her even more legendary in our book.

He made sure the children and I were safe, drove us to many hotels to get a room, and even made sure they were pet friendly. Trooper Peete

TROOPER MICHAEL STEELE

TROOPER PATRICK YOUNG

Carl M., a motorist on I-88, had the following to say about Trooper Patrick Young:

Trooper Young went above and beyond for my wife and I during the breakdown of our rental vehicle on the evening of Jan 4. After first stopping to ensure we were safe Trooper Young circled back to find that we were still awaiting a tow. With temperatures falling he not only provided us a place to warm up he also arranged a ride for us to get to the airport to get a replacement vehicle. His friendly and helpful demeanor was incredibly welcomed and appreciated during that time. Not only did Trooper Young insure we were safe, he went out of his way to support. What was most appreciated was his choice to go above and beyond in helping us. Thank you and God bless to Trooper Young.

Way to go, Trooper Young!

TROOPER DAVE FIGGINS

On March 10, 2025, Dave Figgins responded to a request for assistance/flat tire on I-57 northbound. The motorist was grateful for Trooper Figgins' help and skill. He writes:

"At approximately 1500 hours on Monday 10 March, I called 911 for assistance near mile marker 90 on I57 North. A Trooper soon arrived to my location on the right side of the road where there was no room to safely change a flat tire. The Trooper provided a well-coordinated strategic movement to an overpass where a vertical pillar would act as a shield to some of the traffic. The Trooper then kept me out of harm's way while he repaired my vehicle... This Trooper absolutely saved me from a very bad situation and should be recognized for his outstanding judgment and help to an old Army combat veteran. Please help me recognize him. Steven S."

Trooper Richard Warner was shot and killed by a suicidal man at the Illinois State Police Headquarters, District 5 in Joliet. He brought a man to the station for questioning after he had been involved in an accident. It was suspected that the accident was an attempt by the subject to Trooper Warner was a 12-year veteran of the Illinois State Police, assigned to District 5, Joliet. He is survived by his wife and four children.
